SS Health Brand Guidelines

Introduction

Welcome to the SS Health Brand Guidelines

This document provides a clear and structured framework to ensure consistency across all brand touchpoints - while allowing for purposeful creative expression where needed.

Inside, you'll find SS Health's foundational brand elements: our logo system, typography, colour palette, and application principles. These guidelines are crafted to support brand alignment across digital platforms, physical spaces, marketing materials, and packaging.

While we encourage adherence to these standards, we understand that certain situations may require tailored execution. For guidance on applying our brand identity beyond the scope of this document, reach out to us at brand@sshealth.com

Together, let's build a brand that redefines men's health - engineered with precision, designed for impact.

05 Logo Usage

SS Health Brand Guidelines

Logo usage

The SS Health logo is more than just a mark - it is a symbol of engineered trust, precision, and professionalism. Its consistent application is critical to upholding the credibility and strength of our brand. Using the logo correctly ensures visual clarity, brand recognition, and alignment with our identity as a performance-driven health brand.

To preserve its integrity, the logo must always be placed on clean, uncluttered backgrounds that support strong contrast and visibility. Avoid placing it on visually noisy, overly complex, or distracting images that could interfere with legibility or diminish the logo’s impact.

Under no circumstance should the logo be modified, distorted, or altered in any way. This includes changing its proportions, orientation, colour, or composition, as well as adding effects such as shadows, gradients, strokes, or fades. The logo must only appear in its approved formats, as provided in this guideline.

Every aspect of the SS Health logo has been deliberately designed to express our identity with clarity and confidence. Proper usage across all platforms—digital, print, spatial, and clinical - ensures it remains a powerful and unmistakable symbol of who we are and what we stand for.

07 Typography

SS Health Brand Guidelines

Primary typeface

Poppins is the primary typeface of SS Health, selected for its clean geometry, modern form, and technical clarity. Its balanced structure and sans-serif simplicity reflect the precision, trust, and engineered performance at the core of our brand.

Poppins communicates strength without aggression - making it ideal for men’s health, where confidence meets care. It performs exceptionally across digital interfaces, print collateral, and clinical environments, ensuring legibility, consistency, and visual harmony at every touchpoint.

From consultation forms to marketing campaigns, Poppins anchors our identity with clarity, control, and composure.

Alternate primary typeface

Helvetica Neue is a complementary primary typeface for SS Health. With its crisp lines, neutral tone, and professional clarity, it reinforces our brand’s emphasis on precision, modernity, and medical-grade trust.

Used across many of the world’s most respected institutions, Helvetica Neue communicates strength through simplicity - stripped of distraction, yet rich in confidence. It’s especially effective in clinical, technical, and data-heavy contexts where clarity and authority are paramount.

When applied consistently across digital platforms, signage, and professional documents, Helvetica Neue helps project the structured, no-nonsense ethos of SS Health.

Secondary typeface

Calibri serves as the secondary typeface for SS Health. Chosen for its high legibility and clean, professional appearance, it supports internal documents, patient-facing forms, presentations, and digital communications where clarity and accessibility are key.

While it carries a more neutral and less stylised tone compared to our primary typefaces, Calibri ensures functional consistency across platforms - especially in Microsoft Office environments and cross-platform systems.

Use Calibri when simplicity, speed, and readability take precedence, particularly in operational, clinical, or administrative materials that require universal compatibility without compromising brand cohesion.

Secondary typeface

Helvetica Neue also functions as a secondary typeface within the SS Health system, particularly suited for body copy across clinical materials, digital communication, and brand-aligned publications.

Its neutral character, tight spacing, and high legibility make it ideal for longer-form content where professionalism and readability must remain uncompromised. Helvetica Neue balances precision with restraint—projecting clarity without drawing attention away from key messaging.

While Poppins carries the primary expressive weight of the brand, Helvetica Neue provides a clean, understated alternative for structured content such as medical explanations, onboarding instructions, or technical layouts—especially where the tone must remain factual and direct.

Use Helvetica Neue when the goal is to communicate clearly, confidently, and without stylistic distraction - reinforcing the credibility and efficiency of SS Health.

SS Health Brand Guidelines

Tertiary typeface

Montserrat functions as a supporting typeface within the SS Health brand system. It is not intended to replace Poppins or Helvetica Neue, but to complement them - particularly in contexts that call for high visual impact, such as headlines, section titles, and digital callouts.

With its bold geometry and contemporary presence, Montserrat adds structure, energy, and clarity to layouts without overpowering the core identity. When paired thoughtfully with Poppins or Helvetica Neue, it enhances hierarchy, contrast, and legibility across brand assets.

Use Montserrat selectively - to emphasise key messaging, introduce visual rhythm, or elevate the aesthetic in campaign materials, posters, and interface design.

09 Brand Architecture

Brand Architecture

Brand architecture refers to the organizational structure of a company's brands, sub-brands, products, and services. It outlines how different brands and product lines are related to each other and how they are positioned in the market.

Brand architecture serves as a strategic framework that helps companies manage and differentiate their brands, ensuring clarity in the consumer's mind.

SS Health Brand Guidelines

Brand architecture

At SS Health, we adopt a Sub Brands architecture to build a focused yet flexible ecosystem—anchored by a unified brand vision, but expressed through distinct verticals tailored to men’s evolving health needs.

This model allows us to develop specialised sub-brands - such as SS Clinic, SS Wellness, and SS Ecom - each with its own defined role, audience, and value proposition, while maintaining a strong connection to the SS Health masterbrand.

Each sub-brand delivers a unique experience - from clinical diagnostics and performance medicine, to preventive wellness and curated health products - yet all share the same foundational DNA : engineered precision, masculine clarity, and performance-driven care.

By using a Sub Brands framework, SS Health ensures:

- Strategic coherence across all touchpoints
- Tailored messaging and service design per vertical
- Scalability into new categories without fragmenting the brand

This architecture positions SS Health as a modern, modular health system—able to evolve with men’s needs, expand into new service lines, and lead the category of engineered men’s wellness with clarity and conviction.
